Making agreements with the Central Bank of the Russian Federation

On June 7, 2018 Governor of the National Bank of Kazakhstan Daniyar Akishev and Governor of the Central Bank of the Russian Federation Elvira Nabiullina signed an agreement on cooperation and exchange of information related to supervision of the financial markets, as well as the Agreement on cooperation to ensure information security.

The Agreement on cooperation and information exchange in the area of supervision of financial markets aims to enhance the reliability and sustainability of the financial markets of the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation as part of the monitoring and supervisory functions of the regulator, as well as to create conditions for the provision of financial institutions of high-quality services in the securities market, insurance, banking and microfinance. The Agreement would enhance transparency, capacity and liquidity of the financial markets and, consequently, create conditions to improve their efficiency.

The Agreement on cooperation in information security intends to build the cooperation of the National Bank of Kazakhstan and the Central Bank of the Russian Federation on information security and combating cybercrime in the financial sector. The implementation of this Agreement would allow financial regulators to organize effective cooperation through the development of permanent contacts, collection, processing and exchange of information on counteraction to modern cyber threats.
